Accommodation is distributed across six private bedroom suites, each incorporating its own en suite bathroom and a consistent design language. The principal suite occupies a privileged position within the villa, featuring panoramic views towards the La Concha mountain and a bathroom conceived as a wellness space, complete with a freestanding tub and natural stone finishes.

Outdoor living has been carefully structured across multiple levels. Broad terraces extend from the main reception areas, providing distinct spaces for dining, relaxation and entertaining. A rooftop lounge with a jacuzzi captures elevated views across the surrounding landscape, while the infinity pool forms the visual centrepiece of the garden, surrounded by carefully arranged sun terraces.

Practical infrastructure has been integrated without disrupting the architectural clarity of the villa. A private garage, advanced home systems and secure gated access support both comfort and discretion, ensuring the property functions as effectively for full-time living as it does for seasonal residence.

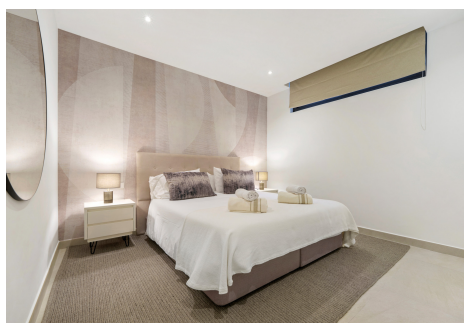

Altos de Puente Romano forms part of Marbella's Golden Mile, widely regarded as one of the most resilient and internationally sought-after property markets on the Costa del Sol. The restaurants, beach clubs and tennis facilities of Puente Romano and Marbella Club lie just minutes away, while Puerto Banus and the nearby town centre provide further dining, retail and marina amenities. International schools and essential services nearby reinforce the area's appeal for both permanent residence and second-home ownership.

The combination of prime location, mature infrastructure and limited land supply continues to underpin long-term demand in this sector of the market. Within this setting, the property captures modern Mediterranean living at its most confident and complete.
